

Push the Boundaries of What's Possible With Your Nonprofit Organization

Tap the resources of University of Wisconsin-Extension, Brown County.

Extension can provide information, training and direction based on the goals of your organization. After an initial assessment, Extension will develop a flexible class schedule and plan, working with your organization to best determine class location and format to maximize attendance and return.

The following are examples of the topics Extension can address:

Extension

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON
BROWN COUNTY

Board Roles and Responsibility

Learn how boards operate, the role and responsibilities of board officers, ways to orientate new board members, and the relationship of the board to other aspects of the organization, volunteers, and staff.

Ethics, Image, and Conflicts of Interest

Board members are often held to a higher standard. The image of the organizations and those associated with it can influence the success and effectiveness of the organization. Learn how to avoid conflicts of interest, address questions of ethics, and maintain a positive image.

Grant Proposal Writing

Learn the steps in the grant writing process — everything from developing your funding idea, finding potential funders through to drafting a budget and evaluating your project.

Interacting Effectively with Generations in the Workplace

For the first time in history, communities are filled with four — maybe five — generations of citizens. Each generation is characterized by unique ways of working and communicating. Learn why generations act and communicate the way they do, and how to best work with them.

